Device Breakthrough for Seniors and Disabled Persons:

Patent and Certifications Awarded; New Advanced Grab Bar Creates Greater Safety Opportunities

National Association of HomeBuilders Certification Received; both ADA and Bathroom Safety compliant in ASTM F446-93 standards

Spokane, Washington, Winter, 2000: Sarff Systems, Inc. has received a patent award for the product 'Extend A Hand'. Extend A Hand (EAH) is a new advanced grab bar that will provide a means for the user to generate greater leverage and greater control for maneuvering through 'at-risk' to fall areas for seniors and disabled persons. Six models are currently available.

Originally designed for use by the Home Consumer, Retirement Centers, Assisted Living Facilities, and Therapy or Rehab Centers, the Extend A Hand product may find use in boats, RVs, or hot-tub areas as well. A variety of industrial manufactures and builders may find Extend A Hand inclusion as an accessory item or incorporation as standard equipment to be advantageous.

The Extend A Hand grab bar has a locking extension that folds out of the way when not needed, with models supporting up to 1,500 pound. The Extend A Hand product promotes safety and is easier to reach than a conventional grab bar providing a better grab bar solution.

Certifications: National Association of HomeBuilders certification - both ADA and Bathroom Safety compliant in ASTM F446-93 standards. Recognized as a Durable Medical Equipment (DME) product for Washington Administrative Code (WAC) 388-500-0005 for Washington State Medicaid coverage.

Sarff Systems, Inc. continues to seek all other state Medicaid coverage and Medicare coverage for the product targeting approvals for 2001. Sarff Systems, Inc. also seeks Channel Partners to distribute the product for worldwide use. Extend A Hand is an assistance devise that promotes the users safety and independence.
